

Cookie Policy

We at RevRelations use cookies on our website. A cookie is a small text data file that is saved in your browser when you visit websites using a computer, mobile phone or other digital device.

We use cookies for technical reasons and to make our web services easier for our visitors to use. We also use cookies to monitor traffic to our website and for statistics.

What different types of cookies are there?

A cookie can either be classified by its lifespan or by the domain to which it belongs. By lifespan, a cookie is either a:

- session cookie which is erased when you close your browser or
- persistent cookie which remains on your computer/device for a pre-defined period of time.

Session cookies enable us to keep track of your movement from page to page on our website so you don't get asked for the same information you've already given to the site. Cookies allow you to proceed through many pages of our website quickly and easily without having to authenticate or reprocess each new area you visit.

A persistent cookie enables us to remember you on subsequent visits, speeding up or enhancing your experience of our services or functions offered.

As for the domain to which a cookie belongs, there are either:

- first-party cookies which are set by us as the owner of the visited website (in this case revrelations.com) or
- third-party cookies which may be set by another website.

How we use cookies

We use cookies so that you can use our website in the way we intended and to be able to give you, the visitor, better service and a better user experience. Some of our cookies are required in order for our website to work properly. These cookies are used, for example, to support several simultaneous visitors to the website and to remember your actions on our website.

In addition, cookies are used to gather statistics regarding the number of visitors to the website and to collect information about how our website is being used and how we can improve its content, navigation and structure. Lastly, we use cookies for marketing purposes.

What kind of information do we collect by using cookies?

When you visit our website, we may automatically collect the following types of information from you:

- Internet protocol (IP) address,

- Login information
- Time zone setting
- Operating system and platform
- Information about your visits including the URL you came from, your country, the search terms you used in our website, products you viewed or searched, page response times, download errors, length of visits to certain pages, page interaction information, (such as scrolling, clicks, and mouse-overs) and the methods used to browse away from the page.

Social networks and other third party websites

Our website occasionally embeds sharing tools from social network sites such as Facebook and Instagram. These suppliers may, therefore, use cookies on our website. We have no access to, nor any control over, these cookies and the information collected. We recommend that you check the relevant third-party website(s) for more information about these cookies and how you can choose to block them.

How can you block cookies?

Most browsers allow you to refuse cookies. You may block our cookies by activating the setting on your browser that allows you to refuse the setting of all or some cookies. You can find out more about cookies by clicking your way to the help section in your browser menu.

If you block our use of cookies, you may be unable to access certain areas of our website and certain functions and pages will not work in the usual way.
